Bellaire's History

William Wright Baldwin, acting as president of the South End Land Company, founded Bellaire and Westmoreland Farms after purchasing the 9,449-acre Rice Ranch in 1908. Baldwin was a native of Iowa and nationally known as vice president of the Burlington Railroad. The development was six miles from Houston on the eastern edge of the Rice Ranch, so named for former owner William Marsh Rice. Promotional advertising in 1909 explained that Bellaire was named for the area's Gulf breezes, but Baldwin may have named it for Bellaire, Ohio, a town served by his railroad. By 1910 Baldwin had invested over $150,000 in capital improvements to turn the treeless prairie into an attractive location for residences and small truck farms. From the site to Main Street in Houston he constructed Bellaire Boulevard. He also incorporated the Westmoreland Railroad Company to build an electric streetcar line down the center of the boulevard. The streetcar, known as the "Toonerville Trolley," operated from December 12, 1910, until bus service replaced it on September 26, 1927. In 1910 horticulturist Edward Teas was enticed to move his nursery from the State of Missouri to Bellaire to implement landscaping plans drawn by landscape architect Sid Hare. A Bellaire post office opened in 1911.

The South End Land Company advertised nationwide to attract Midwestern farmers and others who were eager to escape harsh winters. Bellaire was promoted as an exclusive residential neighborhood and agricultural trading center with the conveniences of city living and reliable access to Houston. On June 24, 1918, with a population of about 200, Bellaire obtained a general-law city charter. The population reached 1,124 by 1940. Houston's expansion after World War II transformed Bellaire into a popular suburb, but geographical growth was halted when Houston annexed the surrounding land on December 31, 1948.

In April 1949 Bellaire adopted a home-rule charter with a council-manager government. The city had 10,173 residents in 1950.

Bellaire is zoned for residential, commercial, and light industrial sections. High-rise office buildings are located along Loop 610, but Bellaire is largely known as a residential city.

Library

In 1951, the Bellaire Women's Civic Club formed a library committee for the purpose of starting a public library in Bellaire. After 8,500 hours and $350, the Bellaire City Library was formally opened on May 3, 1951. The City Council approved a budget of $500 for the first year.

The library was only open three days a week and was located in one small room in the Community Building. There were 2,800 books for the 200 cardholders, 140 of which were children.

A new building of 5,808 square feet was built and dedicated on May 9, 1962, at the present location on Jessamine. It was 15 times the size of the original library room. By 1974, a two-story addition had been completed, expanding the space to 10,868 square feet.

Now residents can visit the library six days a week where computers, printers, scanners, Wi-Fi, and access to databases and downloadable materials are available.

Visit the library for information on story times, STEM programming, summer reading programs and more!

Police Department

As a premier law enforcement organization, the Bellaire Police Department's vision is for the City of Bellaire to be the safest community in the area by blending excellence in policing with community partnerships.

The Bellaire Police Department is comprised of 39 full-time commissioned officers. There are also 14 non-commissioned personnel and part-time employees. The department handles approximately 31,000 calls for service each year, with the average response time of 1 minute and 11 seconds for an officer to be dispatched from the time you call.

The Bellaire Police Department offers the residents a number of ways to interact and receive helpful information. The department uses www.nextdoor.com and Notify Me that can be accessed via the City's website to send out important information. We also have a camera mapping program that allows residents to notify the police if they have a security camera system in the event a crime happens nearby. The Bellaire Police Department is open 24 hours a day/7 days a week.

The department also employs a full-time Animal Control Officer to help protect citizens from dangers and nuisances created by uncontrolled or diseased animals. Animal emergencies (bites, vicious or injured) are handled 24 hours a day by calling the police department.

The Bellaire Police Department holds community meetings and has a booth at several events in the city throughout the year and looks forward to meeting with residents to discuss any concerns. National Night Out in October is a popular event in the neighborhoods that residents use to get to know their neighbors and send a message to criminals that the city is organized and fighting back against crime. Making a point to meet your neighbors and the Bellaire Police employees can be a big step in combating crime. Visit www.bellairetx.gov for more information.

The Bellaire Police Department welcomes our residents to tell us about issues you feel we should be tackling in our community. Feel free to chat with any of our officers you see in the neighborhood or call 713.668.0487.

Fire Department

A red fire truck is parked in front of the City of Bellaire Fire Station. The station is a two-story brick building with a sign that reads "CITY OF BELLAIRE FIRE STATION". An American flag and a red flag are flying on poles to the left of the station. The fire truck has a Texas license plate that reads "124-7173".

The Bellaire Fire Department is a combination department comprised of dual certified members. This means our personnel are certified as EMT or Paramedic by the Texas Department of State Health Services and as Structural Firefighters by the Texas Commission on Fire Protection. Our only concern is the safety of you and your family.

Fire Department

A move to a new community can be filled with concerns for service. The Bellaire Fire Department wants to assure you that you have made a perfect choice when it comes to the safety of your family.

We deploy our personnel on all non-law enforcement public safety issues within Bellaire. Our ambulance is staffed to Advanced Life Support levels and usually is staffed to Mobile Intensive Care Unit levels.

Since each member of the department is EMS certified, all fire vehicles have advanced life support capability. This gives our patients the best care available.

The Bellaire Fire Department responds to each fire with a full complement of personnel, apparatus, and equipment necessary to handle each fire. Our automatic aid agreement with our sister cities, West University and Southside Place, ensure we safely and efficiently contain and extinguish each fire. We also have a mutual aid agreement with the City of Houston Fire Department. Our Volunteers assist on all structure fires, major accidents with a prolonged on-scene time, and all special events (Bellaire Trolley Run, July 4th Parade and Holiday in the Park, to name a few).

You may have purchased, or are living in a home outfitted with an automatic fire sprinkler. If you have a system and have questions, please call the Fire Marshal at (713) 662-8203 to discuss the features and maintenance, or visit us online.

The Bellaire Fire Department also offers a Home Safety Analysis to all residents. When you request, we come to your home, inspect common fire hazard areas, and make recommendations to reduce those hazards.

If you are young, or young at heart, we welcome you to bring your “kids” to tour the station. Our staff would enjoy the opportunity to show you around Bellaire’s Fire Department.
